

Review — Photojournalism

Terms you should know:

- Composition techniques

Describe each of the techniques below

depth of field
rule of thirds layering
repetition
angle silhouette leading lines framing

- Apertures

List the standard f-stops

What do they do?

Discuss depth of field and how it relates.

Discuss equivalent exposures

- Shutter speeds

List the standard shutter speeds

How are they measured?

ID fast and slow shutter speeds in groups

- ISO

What is it?

How is it measured?

What's the best setting to use if you aren't sure?

- White balance

What is it?

How do we set our cameras properly?

Questions

- Discuss composition and why it's important in photography.

- If a photo turns out too dark, what should you do the next time?

- What does the f-stop dial on the camera control?

- What is the most important part of the camera? Why?

- What is the role of apertures and shutter speeds in photography? Describe each and why are they important.

- What is exposure? Why is it important? What components make up proper exposure in a photo?

- What is the difference between photography and photojournalism?